

Director, Georgia Cancer Center

The Medical College of Georgia is commencing a national search for Director of the Georgia Cancer Center at Augusta University. With a newly expanded facility that bridges research and clinical missions, the University is committed to growth and seeks a renowned physician or scientist to lead the progress towards NCI designation. This collaborative leader will report to the Dean of the Medical College and will be responsible for all educational, clinical, and research missions of the Center. Guided by the Center's Care Family Model, the Director will lead efforts in building cross-disciplinary research programs, developing cancer faculty, and establishing a regional foothold for oncologic services. This visionary leader will cultivate relationships locally, statewide, nationally, and internationally.

Candidates must hold an MD, PhD, combination, and/or equivalent and must be eligible for faculty appointment at the full Professor level. A sustained record of academic and research accomplishments, including significant leadership and managerial experience within an academic Cancer Center, and a national and/or international reputation in Oncology is required. A track record of sustained extramural NCI funding is desirable.

The Medical College of Georgia at Augusta University (AU), is the only public medical school in Georgia, the 13th oldest and the 8th largest medical school in the U.S. with 3 regional campuses and a partnership campus with the University of Georgia. AU is one of four research-intensive universities in the University System of Georgia. With 920 medical students, 510 residents, and over 800 faculty members, MCG has a long-established tradition of excellence in education, research, and clinical care.
