

C. Barrett Jones, MD
Assistant Professor, Emergency Medicine
Assistant Residency Program Director

Appointment Date: 2013

Dr. Jones received his medical degree in 2010 from the Medical College of Georgia in Augusta, Georgia. He then completed his residency training in emergency medicine in 2013 at Augusta University Medical Center and joined the faculty afterwards. His primary area of clinical interest is in international medicine and global health. He completed a fellowship in international medicine at Augusta University Medical Center in 2016, which included a Diploma course in Tropical Medicine and Hygiene (DTM&H) at Cayetano Heredia University in Lima, Peru. He also currently serves as the residency site director for emergency medicine at the Charlie Norwood VA Medical Center.

Specialty Focus: International Medicine and Global Health