

Zhenglun (Jerry) Zhu, MD, PhD

Assistant Professor of Medicine Harvard Medical School

Associate Physician Brigham and Women's Hospital,

Gastroenterology Division

Boston, MA

Date: September 18, 2012

Time: Noon-1:00 PM

Location: BC-140

Title of Presentation: "Molecular Mechanisms of Dorsoventral Axis Formation and its Clinical Implications"

About the Speaker:

Dr. Zhu earned his medical degree from Beijing Medical University. He completed a residency at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in Internal Medicine, and his fellowship at Brigham and Women's Hospital. Dr. Zhu currently is Assistant Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School, and Associate Physician at Brigham and Women's Hospital. Dr. Zhu is an elected member of the American Society of Clinical Investigation. He has received many awards including AMA Physician Recognition Award and Regal Award for Excellence in GI Research.

About the Speaker: Objectives:

1. To review and update principles of cell fate determination and its relevance in advancing patient care in the fields of cancer biology and autoimmune/inflammatory diseases.

Online presentation is available for viewing in Echo and CME credit can be earned by following instructions in the Echo Discussions.