Communications and Marketing Policy

POLICY STATEMENT
The Division of Communications and Marketing (DCM) is charged with planning, development, and implementation of communications and marketing efforts for Augusta University, including, but not limited to the items listed in the definitions section below.

The Vice President for Communications & Marketing provides oversight for the development of communications and marketing strategies, and for coordinating the communications and marketing efforts of the entire university and health system. No consultants, firms, agencies or freelancers may be hired for these purposes without prior approval from DCM.

The hiring of staff responsible for communications or marketing efforts will be done in consultation with DCM. The Vice President for Communications & Marketing, or his/her designee, will participate in the interview of the final candidates for such positions.

All external communications or marketing efforts of the university or health system will be coordinated through and approved by DCM.

Internal communication efforts target large groups (over 50 people) within the AU community should also be coordinated through and approved by DCM.

All external communications or marketing efforts of the university or health system will be coordinated through and approved by DCM.

The Division of Communications and Marketing is charged with maintaining editorial standards and brand guidelines on behalf of the university. The Augusta University Brand Guidelines shall serve as the official editorial and visual identity standards for communication on behalf of the university.
