About the Harry Jacobs Chamber Music Society

History

The Harry Jacobs Chamber Music Society has been presenting world-class chamber music to the Augusta area since 1990. The 2019 – 2020 season marks the second year of the Harry Jacobs Chamber Music Society's partnership with the Augusta University Pamplin College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences and the college's Department of Music.

Outreach

One mission of the HJCMS is to inspire the next generation of musicians and music lovers by providing outreach programs to the community. In addition to performing concerts, many of the artists on our series will be giving masterclasses, mini-performances and working with local school children.

Support

This year's series includes five concerts featuring performers from around the world. Artists include the Minguet Quartett with pianist Andreas Klein from Germany, pianist Leonardo Colifelice from Italy, Russian Renaissance from Russia, Carolina Brass from North Carolina, and Warp Trio from New York.

Our series depends on the support of local businesses and private donors who understand the importance of bringing high quality chamber music to our area. This is a unique opportunity for you to reach the community at large as well as Augusta University faculty, staff and students. We thank you for your support!
