

Augusta University Policy Library

Use of Libraries by Minors

Policy Owner: Library

POLICY STATEMENT

Any persons under the age of 18 are required to have his/her legal guardian sign a consent form approved by Augusta University Office of Legal Affairs in order to use the University Libraries facilities. The consent form will be kept on file at the respective library involved and must be updated on a yearly basis. Exceptions to this policy include:

1. An individual who is a currently enrolled student at Augusta University or,
2. An individual who is part of an institutionally sponsored educational program or,
3. An individual who is part of an escorted, scheduled tour

13 and Under	N/A	Yes	Yes
14-17	Yes	No	Yes

The parent or guardian of any minor using the University Libraries is responsible for any fees, fines, damage to the library or its collections, or other costs incurred by the minor at the library.

The University Libraries provide unfiltered Internet access to information. The library collection contains legitimate academic images of anatomy and sexuality that some people may find objectionable.

Furthermore, it is against the law and Augusta University policy for anyone to use the Internet for any illegal purpose, such as the distribution of obscene materials to minors.

Augusta University reserves the right to revoke library privileges to those persons who fail to follow the rules of the University Libraries, and to remove such persons if necessary. Parents or guardians will be held responsible for any fees imposed on a minor pursuant to the rules of the libraries and for any damage to the libraries or their collections caused by said minor. The Libraries are not responsible for the safety or security of a minor beyond normal public safety standards.

The University Libraries' collections include legitimate academic materials regarding anatomy and sexuality that some people may find offensive. Augusta University and its library employees do not monitor Internet usage, and Augusta University assumes no responsibility
