AUGUSTA UNIVERSITY

Division of Enrollment and Student Affairs

GUIDING PRINCIPLES

As a division we believe that our best days are ahead of us. The past five years have focused upon discovering an identity through integrated campuses, competing priorities, enrollment growth, and the delivery of an enhanced campus life. The experiences of our past are set to propel us to 2024. Our passion, and our sole reason for existence, is our students. Achieving our mission is only possible when student success and persistence is the driver of our priorities.

We believe that the core of our role is to be educators. We are higher education professionals who believe the wealth of college experiences doesn't end at the classroom door, but that our services and programming must complement the academic experience. We believe that campus opportunities should be focused on preparing Augusta University graduates to lead and serve within their professional careers and communities.

We also believe that students thrive and succeed when their physical, mental, and financial wellbeing are a priority. We assist them in developing the necessary skills to meet life's challenges while providing services that are responsive to their needs.

We believe "thinking 2024" is more than systems and processes, it is about planning today for a campus environment and culture fit for all. We believe that our students benefit greatly from a staff that believes in the importance of lifelong learning and a commitment to bringing the vision and mission of Augusta University to life. We believe our team is stronger when all voices are heard and respected.

Finally, as we aspire to facilitate a transformative college experience for our students, we believe that our collective decisions are best when we make students our top priority.
